

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, CALIFORNIA

One Lake, 3 Amazing Ski Resorts

Tahoe's skiing history is lengthy, varied, storied, innovative, and goes back 160 years. You can't even think of skiing without thinking of Lake Tahoe, California. Too much has happened here: The first ski racing in North America; chairlifts before 1940; some of the best ski resorts in North America; and some of the biggest pro freeskiers on Earth; including Shane McConkey and Scot Schmidt.

1850s – Organized ski racing in North America starts near Lake Tahoe in Johnsville when gold miners skied 15-foot-long skis and hit speeds nearing 100 miles per hour. 1856 – "Snowshoe" Thompson was Lake Tahoe's impossibly burly symbol of skiing. Thompson was the only link between the growing city of San Francisco and the rest of the continent. He'd regularly carry 60+ pounds of mail up over the Sierra Nevada from Placerville to Genoa and back on 9-foot-long skis. 1924 – the first ski resort in Lake Tahoe was opened for Tahoe Tavern guests in Tahoe City.

So much more has happened....Fast forward to today, and you've got 6 world class ski resorts dotting the shores of North and South Lake Tahoe. We are staying in South Lake Tahoe and will have access to 3 resorts on the Epic Pass: Heavenly, Northstar, and Kirkwood. These popular resorts will fill your need for speed, steep and deep, or elegant groomers. Plus, we are heading there in February, which offers the best skiing conditions and is the snowiest month at Lake Tahoe! We are staying 2 people per room at Tahoe Resort Hotel, located literally steps away from Nevada and the casinos, and only 1 block to the gondola, making this not only luxurious, but convenient too. Your trip includes airfare, ground transfers, lodging and more fun!
